How we can help

Section 34, Environmental Protection Act 1990

Anyone who produces, stores or disposes of waste has a duty of care to ensure that waste is managed properly.

- Waste must be stored safely and securely.
- It must be prevented from causing environmental pollution or harming anyone.

WE CAN HELP

Traditionally, our most in-demand services for social care providers have included washroom and hygiene services and floorcare. Our experts continue to meet the needs of organisations in this sector with a wide range of products and services.

A safe, secure environment

- Safety is important in any building used by the public, with numerous laws and guidelines requiring organisations to take the appropriate precautions. phs can supply clear, easy-to-understand information about what you need to do to remain compliant and keep the inspectors happy.

Hygienic, professionally maintained washrooms

- Nobody wants to use an unhygienic or poorly maintained washroom, yet many organisations fail to address their dirty loos as other tasks taking priority. phs can ensure that your washrooms remain clean at all times, providing essential products and maintenance services to keep your toilets tidy.

Avoid slips and trips

- The more people that enter your building, the greater the chance of your floors becoming wet and dirty, increasing the risk of injury through slips and trips. We provide dirt and moisture-absorbing mats to tackle this problem, with a regular laundering service to keep them presentable and hygienic.

Your waste, taken care of

- Hygienically storing and disposing of waste such as nappies and incontinence products is a task that many social workers would rather not deal with themselves. Allow our team to take care of it – we'll provide facilities to safely and hygienically store waste, as well as collecting and disposing of it for you.

From providing children with the care they need, to assisting families and vulnerable adults, the role of social workers is rightly focused on helping as many people as possible.

But with limited timeframes and budgets, other important responsibilities can end up being forgotten. Rules and regulations around hygiene, health and safety in the workplace may be compromised, potentially threatening the wellbeing of staff and the very people they are trying to protect.

As a hygiene product and service supplier with more than 50 years of experience, phs understands the challenges that social workers and organisations face when trying to stay on top of health and safety. phs works with over 4,200 social care providers to help make your workplace cleaner and safer for everyone who uses it.

Are you compliant? The CQC (Care Quality Commission) inspects standards of cleanliness and hygiene among social care providers. Our specialists can help to ensure that your organisation has the correct measures in place.

Healthcare, washroom and floorcare hygiene is our business. We stay on top of all the legislative developments affecting your industry to provide you with expert advice on what you need to do to ensure that your organisation is legally compliant.

Our professional service drivers provide a discreet and efficient service, calling ahead to check that our servicing times are convenient for your business. And, if any of your products or services need change, we're just a call away and have the flexibility to adapt to whatever is needed.

We're in every geographical area and because we're Next door. Everywhere, we are on hand to help wherever you are. And as a single supplier, meeting all your needs, we can help reduce your day-to-day administration commitment as well as your financial costs.

Our social care building blueprint shows the most in-demand services that we currently provide to the social services sector.

Adhere to legislation

We will ensure that safety and hygiene at your establishment is handled strictly in line with current legislation and according to best practice guidelines.
